Our Funding Model

Canandaigua Emergency Squad operates as a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization.

- We receive zero tax dollars
- We are independent of both the fire departments and hospital systems, though we maintain strong working relationships with each
- Our operations are supported through:
 - Annual community fund drives, organized and assembled by our very own members
 - Third-party billing for ambulance and medical services

Community support is essential to sustaining our mission and ensuring that high-quality emergency medical care remains available to those who need it most.

Challenges Facing the EMS Industry as a Whole

Emergency Medical Services agencies across New York State and the nation face significant challenges that impact their ability to maintain and expand services.

Unlike police and fire services, EMS is not currently designated as an essential service under New York State law, meaning municipalities are not required to provide or fund ambulance services. As a result, many EMS agencies must operate independently while still providing critical emergency healthcare to their communities.

Additionally, reimbursement rates from Medicare, Medicaid, and many insurance providers have not kept pace with the rising costs of providing ambulance services, including staffing, training, medical equipment, fuel, and vehicle maintenance. This creates a significant financial gap between the cost of delivering care and the reimbursement received.

At the same time, EMS agencies nationwide are experiencing increasing call volumes, workforce shortages, and growing demand for advanced medical services, all while operating within limited financial resources.

Despite the challenges currently facing the EMS industry, we are proud to say that our ability to provide high-quality care to our communities has not been impacted. Our organization remains in a strong position operationally, but this is only possible because of the dedication and tireless efforts of our EMS providers. Their commitment to serving our communities ensures that help is always available when it is needed most. However, the growing demands placed on emergency medical services can take a significant toll on those who answer the call.

We are led by a 12-member board of directors including representative from our Naples and East Bloomfield Division.
